KiziKilla was attempting to kill me with Flint n' Steel, continuously /ptp teleporting to me, thats why i set the trap. I removed it as soon as i could. The lava i placed was at the Faction spawn (it was placed unknowingly that it was the spawn) but luckily Kizi and i were the only people in the Faction online at that time, But Kizikilla has replaced the lava encased in cobble stone on the Faction spawn point and did not remove it (very immature of him, what i did was an accident and unintentional). He has also placed lava at my /home so i am currently unable to play on your servers until this lava is removed. It would be VERY appreciated if my character was placed at the /spawn command location. This is going to be a VERY big problem and should be looked into.

i do not want Kizi to get in trouble, he is a Faction member and i respect him.

I would hope to see my ban be revoked if one has been placed.

this same player has accused me of stealing certain items when confronted i offered to resupply his lost items free of charge from my own stock he then immediatly left the faction and when asked why he began to try to make angry and succeeded to the point of having me spam messages in private message form only to take screen shot of said spam i ask that u forgive this action as it will never happen again and i will happily avoid the player in the future and i would not prefer to see either of us punished for he is a former faction member and i respect him
