The news that Valve would be releasing a sequel for the successful Left 4 Dead seems to have struck a chord with many fans of the game already saying that despite what they saw in the trailer they will not be buying the sequel.

The group is calling itself L4D Boycott or No-L4D2 and has the support of over 10,000+ fans of the game already, and it appears to be growing at a fairly steady pace. The group has nine basic complaints based on both their experience playing the first Left 4 Dead title and what they saw in the trailer for the new game.
